with environmental leadership, such as setting ambitious and meaningful targets. Those that don't disclose or provide insufficient information are scored an F.

Fernando Lozano, Corporate General Manager at Sacyr said "being included in CDP's A List for the second year in a row is a result of our team's commitment to fulfill our goals to reduce our CO2 emissions, consuming renewable energy and applying good practices throughout the entire value chain. This year, we obtained a double A score for the first time thanks to our meticulous and responsible water resource management".

Sacyr is committed to a continuous improvement strategy in water resource management and has a strategic goal to reduce its own water consumption in all activities by at least 10% before 2025, both in high and low water-stressed areas. In addition, in 2023, Sacyr renewed its water footprint verification certificate covering all its global activities. Thanks to water treatment and production activities, Sacyr has a highly positive impact, improving water quality and providing freshwater in areas with very high water stress.

In the fight against climate change, Sacyr works on decarbonization and adaptation as fundamental pillars of its Climate Change Strategy. It is committed to reducing its Scope 1 and 2 greenhouse gas (GHG) emissions by 42%, and Scope 3 emissions by 25% by 2030, aiming for carbon neutrality before 2050. These objectives are validated through the SBTi and are aligned with limiting the increase in global temperature to 1.5°C.

Sherry Madera, CEO of CDP, said: "Congratulations to all the companies on CDP's A List, and those companies that started or accelerated their journey towards environmental transparency in 2023 – we saw a 24% increase of disclosures last year and that trajectory is to be applauded. It is only by laying the groundwork of disclosure that companies can show they are serious about the vital part they play in securing a net-zero, nature-positive future.

Earning a place on the A List is about more than the score. It's an indication of high quality, complete data that equips companies with a holistic view of their environmental impact, serves as a baseline for transition plans and – crucially – enables them to follow through on their ambitions. As we move deeper into the Decade of Action, and as CDP continually raises the bar for what represents environmental leadership, the work of A List companies is never complete. We look forward to seeing all companies turn their commitments into further and more meaningful and effective action.”
